Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 102

The following is a quotation of the appropriate paragraphs of 35 U.S.C. 102 that form the basis for the rejections under this section made in this Office action:

A person shall be entitled to a patent unless –

(e) the invention was described in (1) an application for patent, published under section 122(b), by another filed in the United States before the invention by the applicant for patent or (2) a patent granted on an application for patent by another filed in the United States before the invention by the applicant for patent, except that an international application filed under the treaty defined in section 351(a) shall have the effects for purposes of this subsection of an application filed in the United States only if the international application designated the United States and was published under Article 21(2) of such treaty in the English language.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 103

The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

(a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negated by the manner in which the invention was made.

The factual inquiries set forth in Graham v. John Deere Co., 383 U.S. 1, 148 USPQ 459 (1966), that are applied for establishing a background for determining obviousness under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) are summarized as follows:

1. Determining the scope and contents of the prior art.
2. Ascertaining the differences between the prior art and the claims at issue.
3. Resolving the level of ordinary skill in the pertinent art.
4. Considering objective evidence present in the application indicating obviousness or nonobviousness.

This application currently names joint inventors. In considering patentability of the claims under 35 U.S.C. 103(a), the examiner presumes that the subject matter of the various claims was commonly owned at the time any inventions covered therein were made absent any evidence to the contrary. Applicant is advised of the obligation under 37 CFR 1.56 to point out the inventor and invention dates of each claim that was not commonly owned at the time a later invention was made in order for the examiner to consider the applicability of 35 U.S.C. 103(c) and potential 35 U.S.C. 102(e), (f) or (g) prior art under 35 U.S.C. 103(a).

Claims 1-3,5-7,9-14,16-21 and 23-25 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Brooker, et al.-6269810 in view of Gilmore, et al.-5931160.

Brooker discloses a pulmonary aerosol dosing system having a means for providing patient parameters and means for adjusting the system to deliver the doses according to the providing means. A keyboard is used to input patient specific data which is read by a control means which acts to adjust the system to deliver the proper doses to the patient according to the patient specific data. Feedback from the patient such as tidal volume can be monitored to adjust or customize the delivery profile. See col. 4 lines 41-42; col. 7 lines 33-48; col. 12 lines 43-64; col. 13 lines 3-60; col. 14 lines 41-42; col. 15 lines 3-5 and col. 19 lines 19-37.

Brooker discloses the invention as claimed with the possible exception of the adjusting of a respiratory flow or tidal volume of the inhalation device. Gilmore discloses a ventilator controller which receives patient specific protocols and causes the ventilator to change its flow and volume to provide the specific patient with the proper ventilation regimen related to the patient protocol. See col. 5 lines 25-33; col. 6 lines 4-15; col. 7 lines 4-12. It would have been obvious to have provided Brooker with a control means for changing the volume or flow of the inhalation device in order to allow the dosing device to be easily changed to the parameters specific to the patient being medicated.

Claims 4,8,15 and 22 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Brooker, et al.-'810 in view of Gilmore, et al.-'160, as applied to the claims above, and further in view of Willemot, et al.-'353.

Brooker as modified by Gilmore makes obvious the invention as claimed with the exception of the memory card storing the breathing maneuvers to be carried out.

Willemot discloses an aerosol dosing system having a means for providing patient parameters and means for adjusting the system to deliver the doses according to the providing means. A keyboard is used to input patient specific data into a memory card which is read by a control means which acts to adjust the system to deliver the proper doses to the patient according to the patient specific data. See col. 2 lines 35-64, col. 3 lines 7-36.

It would have been obvious to have provided the system of Brooker as modified by Gilmore with a card storage medium because this would allow for easy transportation of the patient protocol in the event that data transmission between a central control to the inhalation device was not readily accomplished remotely by other means.

Response to Arguments

Applicant's arguments with respect to claims 1-25 have been considered but are moot in view of the new ground(s) of rejection.

Conclusion

Applicant's amendment necessitated the new ground(s) of rejection presented in this Office action. Accordingly, THIS ACTION IS MADE FINAL. See MPEP

Art Unit: 3761

§ 706.07(a). Applicant is reminded of the extension of time policy as set forth in 37 CFR 1.136(a).

A shortened statutory period for reply to this final action is set to expire THREE MONTHS from the mailing date of this action. In the event a first reply is filed within TWO MONTHS of the mailing date of this final action and the advisory action is not mailed until after the end of the THREE-MONTH shortened statutory period, then the shortened statutory period will expire on the date the advisory action is mailed, and any extension fee pursuant to 37 CFR 1.136(a) will be calculated from the mailing date of the advisory action. In no event, however, will the statutory period for reply expire later than SIX MONTHS from the date of this final action.
